IDEA 1 OF 6

Publish the month's fixtures in one graphic

A single calendar or matchday poster that fans can save and check all month. Build the template once and reuse it.

- Easy to repeat every month
- Works in any sport

HOW TO DO IT

1. List every match of the month with date, time and competition.
2. Keep one template: same grid and colours, only the data changes.
3. Post it on the 1st, pin it, and repost it as a Story before each match.

“Our November, match by match.”

“Mark your calendar: [N] matches this month.”

IDEA 2 OF 6

Make tickets and kit drops part of the matchday story

One bold line, one clear action, no price list. The sales post feels like content, not an ad.

- Ready for Black Friday
- One clear call to action

HOW TO DO IT

1. Pick one product or one match, not the whole catalogue.
2. Open with a bold line that a player or a fan could say.
3. End with a single action: tickets, shop or app, never all three.

IDEA 3 OF 6

Show the first day back in training

When players return from national teams, film the first session. No script, just the reunion.

- Cheap to produce
- The players do the work

HOW TO DO IT

1. Ask your media team to film the first session after the break.
2. Keep the raw sound: no voice-over, no script.
3. Add one line of text: who is back, and from where.

> “Back from [national team], straight to work.”
>
> “First day back at [club].”

IDEA 4 OF 6

Turn one number into the hook

Pick one figure from the month, such as passes or career goals, and make it the first thing viewers see.

- Easy to adapt to any sport
- Simple to explain in 3 seconds

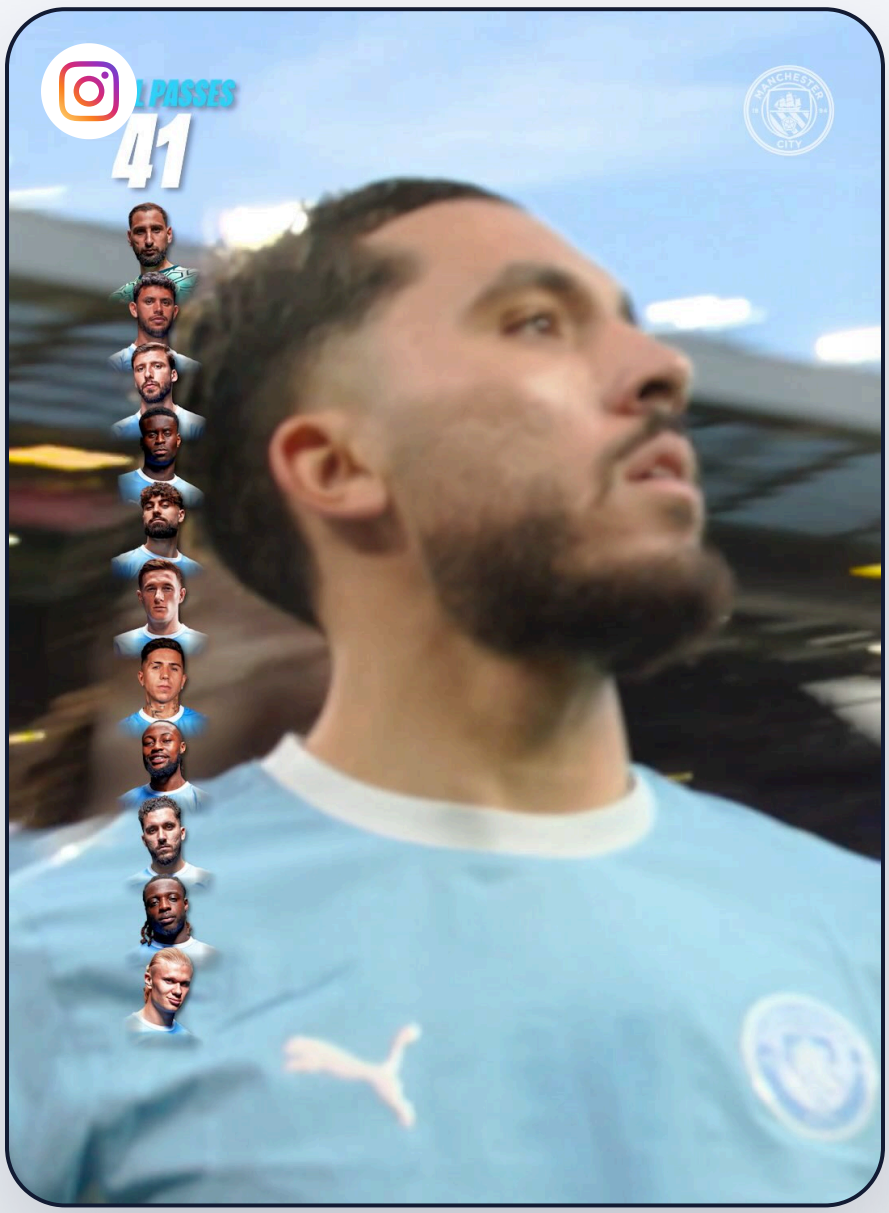

HOW TO DO IT

1. Choose one figure from the last match or the month.
2. Show the number first and explain it second.
3. Use a plain graphic or an on-screen counter.

> “How many [passes / goals / minutes]? Guess before you watch.”
>
> “[N] in November: the number behind our month.”

IDEA 5 OF 6

Share a fan moment

Ask permission, credit the fan who filmed it and add one line. The crowd becomes your content.

- Free content
- Always credit the creator

HOW TO DO IT

1. Look for fan clips tagged to your club or filmed in your stadium.
2. Ask the author for permission in writing.
3. Credit them in the caption and on screen.

IDEA 6 OF 6

Mark a milestone or say thanks

Count down to a record, a farewell or an anniversary. Plan it before the date and let emotion carry the post.

- Plan it ahead
- Built to be shared

HOW TO DO IT

1. Check the calendar for records, farewells and anniversaries.
2. Prepare photos, clips and quotes a week before.
3. Publish at the moment and reply to the comments.

“[N] and counting.”

“Thank you, [name].”
